

Navy Day Program Held Monday Night Was Big Success

Charles Francis Coe As Master of Ceremonies
Was Outstanding

The National Navy Day program in Belle Glade, sponsored by the Local American Legion

"Admiral" Savage, Navy Editor of the Belle Glade Herald, was one of the finest and most impressive programs ever staged in this section of Florida and has received an abundance of favorable comment from consumers of the East Coast radio. He heard thirty minutes of the program that was broadcast over station WJNO at West Palm Beach.

The program opened at eight o'clock in the auditorium of the Belle Glade high school. The first act was the presentation of the Boy Scout Eagle badge to Clarence Kiddler, a local Scout, by George E. Freeman, Scout executive. The badge was pinned on the Scout by his mother, Mrs. R. W. Kiddler.

Simply at 8:15 p. m. with the students of the National Anthem being played softly by the audible over the microphone, the program was introduced by David Webster, radio announcer and station manager. Webster's address was then turned over to Charles Francis "Socks" Sweeney, a well-known, former and prominent lawyer and a former Navy man, who acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers. Sweeney spoke briefly of the significance of the Navy as it affects our lives and the importance of other subjects.

The speakers who took part in the broadcast and the order of their appearance were: Clifford B. Savary, chairman of the Navy Day committee and a regular member of the local chapter of the United States Marine Corps; L. L. Jones, chairman of the local defense council and member of the Belle Glade American Legion; Dr. W. C. Winfield, a local physician and legionnaire; Thomas Creel, local man who has been in the Navy for 21 years; and Capt. W. C. Little, U. S. Naval Training and is at home on leave. His subject was: "Life in a Naval Training station."

These homes will not be sold but will be rented to deserving low income families and it is the plan of the new Authority to build all such homes either entirely outside municipal limits or near the edges where the desired amount of land can be secured without excessive cost.

The whole set-up is designed for the sections of the county which are included in the Authority.

Full particulars can be obtained from Commissioner Arthur Wells or from County Agent M. U. Mounts. Blanks will be available in the near future for those

UNDER THE PALM LEAF
Monday, October 27, was a very busy day for the Navy Day. All over the United States programs were given and many young boys and men became a part of that, I am going to give you a few points of interest about the life of an average sailor.

When the first rays of dawn play about the great grey battlements, the cheery notes of the bugle ring out and the first of the day's routine begins. From 5:30 a. m. till 6:00 a. m., the men dress, stow away their hammocks and eat. From 6:00 till 7:30 the men wash themselves and their clothes. After breakfast, the men are put to work by the band and flag exercises. During the next hour after the concert the ship is made ready for the day. The decks are swept and all the brass about the decks polished. From 9:15 until 9:30 the men go through exercises in physical culture. This is a very important feature in a sailor's life. The navy strives to develop strong minds as well as strong bodies.

The remainder of the morning is spent at General Quarters. The men go through battle drill, while the officers guide the ship through many complicated turns and dashes as it fights an imaginary foe. Lunch then breaks the daily routine.

The afternoon is filled with special military and fire drills and various other drills. At sunset the colors are lowered and the rest of the day is given over for relaxation and amusement. Once a week there are entertainments such as boxing, movies, theatricals, etc. At 9:00 p. m. the customary "Taps" sounds and sleep and darkness steal over the great ship.

I presume that most of us are unaware of the symbolism of the American sailor's uniform. The thirteen buttons across the top of trousers represent the thirteen original states. The bit of white cloth at the neck is a tribute to Admiral Farragut. The sail in which his body was lowered to the water was divided among his sailors with the request that the pieces be worn across their chests. The use of the black tie and the three white stripes comes from the British Navy. The black tie was worn after the death and in memory of Nelson. The three stripes commemorate his three victories.

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

GUSSIE WHO?
He has a very good personality, this boy. He is on the dark side; that is his hair and eyes are. He is about "ugly" height, is neither slim nor fat, and he can get around very fast on the gridiron, too. He can read, write, and play football. Wow! He is an all-around boy. He is president of one section of the Sophomore class, Miss Carlton's section. I believe when it comes to sports, he cannot be beaten. Although he looks at all the girls, and smiles occasionally I cannot say he is interested in any. Or maybe I don't know, eh?

ASSEMBLY FRIDAY
Friday morning, Miss Carlton's section of the tenth grade had the assembly program. Katherine McLeod read the Bible. Mr. Bradstock then led us enthusiastically in the singing of several old favorite songs, "America," "Grandfather's Clock," "America the Beautiful," "Are You Sleeping?" "Home on the Range," and "The Get Together Song." Beverly Lutz played the accompaniment.

Tom Lloyd cleverly acting as a wise sooth-sayer, told the fortunes of several of the students. We certainly hope none of them come true.

Mr. Bartlett announced the Navy Day program which was held in the Auditorium Monday night.

The assembly program was concluded after glancing the Belle Glade eleven, who played LaBelle in LaBelle Friday afternoon.

Some Steers
Some Grass
Some Story

By H. H. Hart

On the home place of H. H. Hart at the west line of the City of Belle Glade there is a patch of waste land about five acres in extent in what was one time a tributary of the Democrat River, with a heavy Napier grass, sometimes known as the Elephant grass of South Africa.

Joe Freedlund conceived the idea that this would make a good cattle pasture so he sent out a crew of men with a pile driver and drove a row of pilings about the piece, for fence posts, using twenty foot pilings for corner posts, and driving them well into the bed rock. He then stretched on them four strands of the heaviest barbed wire, which made a fence strong enough to stop an elephant.

Louis Weiman of this city then rented this pasture for fattening steers and proceeded to bring in several truck loads of hungry, rangy steers from his Okeechobee Ranch, twenty three steers to be accurate.

Louis made many trips out to see how his steers were getting along, but could never see any steers as they were back feeding in the big grass. At last he got Joe Freedlund to fix the pasture, circling low over the grass to count the steers to see if they were all still but no time could more than three steers be seen.

One night nine of these steers mysteriously got out of the pasture. The gate was closed, the fence was checked and found to be intact, and no wire broken or loosened.

The mystery was finally solved by finding where the steers had pushed some of the big grass against the fence and using it as a gang plank, had walked over the fence with no damage to their selves or the fence.

A little later when the steers had become fat enough to make prime western beef, Louis decided to take them out for market. He therefore sent out five of his best cow punchers to round them up. After several days of heated effort, they succeeded in getting only part of the steers. The grass instead of being eaten down as had been expected, had grown the steers to such an extent that they could not be found.

A week or so later he sent out five more cow punchers to get the remaining steers. The first day they had no success whatever, but they had seen two steers which they were unable to capture as they rode their ponies through the maze of holes the steers had eaten through the grass as skippers cut holes through chess.

The second day toward night they came to the house and discovered two high powered rifles. After several hours of this method of round-up the steers were shot like rats in a wood pile. They were dressed, where they fell and the cow punchers had a new experience in bringing steers out of the pasture in small pieces, which they could tote on their backs.

The meat was sold at top price, bringing more than fifty cents per carcass. Louis stated:

grower and cattle raiser, said he would run from the 33rd district, which is comprised of St. Lucie, Okeechobee and Indian River counties. O. A. Kanner formerly was senator from the 33rd district, but resigned during the last legislative session to accept a circuit judgeship.

McCarthy is a graduate of the University of Florida. In 1936 he was elected to the House from St. Lucie county and in 1938 was re-elected without opposition. Elected again in 1940, he was chosen Speaker of the House. He is 29 years old and is married.

MANY NEW MEMBERS (Continued from page 1) September 30 to October 31 as Florida Parent-Teacher Month and urged that all schools hold special exercises under the auspices of the parent-teacher associations to be participated in by parents and teachers for the purpose of discussing methods of improving the work of the schools and with further aim of inspiring a heightened interest among the general public in the school affairs with the object of advancing the welfare and the educational opportunities of Florida school children.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the State of Florida at Tallahassee, the Capital, this 19th day of September, A. D. 1941.

SPESSARD L. HOLLAND, Governor

Attest: R. A. GRAY, Secretary of State.

NAVY DAY PROGRAM (Continued from page 1) who is prominent local business woman and one of the Everglades biggest farmers; and Charles Kiddley Scott who received the Eagle badge before the broadcast started. He spoke of "Why Every Boy Should Think of the Navy."

The broadcast was signed off by the chief announcer and again the Palatka High School band softly played the "Star Spangled Banner" accompanying the signing off of the program.

All mothers in this section who have sons in the Navy were seated on the platform and were introduced by Mayor A. E. Kirschman, who took over as chairman of the meeting after the broadcast.

The Mayor introduced Judge Chillingworth who made a fifteen minute talk to the more than 400 people assembled in the audience. His remarks were very timely and certainly enlightened the audience on several phases of the Navy.

Following Judge Chillingworth's address, Mr. Coe again introduced to the audience and spoke briefly on his opinion of the good to be derived by a young man in the Navy. Mr. Coe served in the Navy and is also a college graduate and a prominent Palm Beach lawyer. He has expressed himself as preferring a "bitch" in the Navy to a college degree unless a man was going on in a profession such as law or medicine.

The Palatka high school band was furnished through the courtesy of Carmen Salvatore, school board member from this section of the city, and added a great deal of color to the program.

Roscoe Braddock lead the singing of several songs by the assembled group and Miss Eleanor Hearn presided at the piano.

Following the program a number of local legionnaires entertained visiting legionnaires and friends with an informal party which was greatly enjoyed.

The Navy Day committee is very grateful to Radio Station WJNO for donating the time on the air as well as the personnel to handle the broadcast by remote control from the high school auditorium. Much credit for the success of the program is also due Clifford B. Savage.
